The members of the "Brotherhood Class of St. John's Reformed Sunday School are busy making preparations for the third anniversary of their class which will be observed on Sunday Feb. 3rd at 7.30 p. m. and for the lecture, which is always a feature of this anniversary, to be delivered on the following night by Dr. Stanley L. Krebs of New York City.

Mr. J. Roy Cessna is in Philadelphia this week receiving instructions preparatory to assuming the duties of secretary of the Liberty Loan Committee in Bedford County in the Third Liberty Loan Campaign. He was named at the suggestion of Mr. A. E. Esch, Chairman of the local committee and when the campaign opens, Mr. Cessna will have complete charge of the office work incident to the sale of bonds in the County. Bedford County stood behind the President in the other issues of bonds and her patriotic citizens will do their share when occasion demands. If the banks will purchase the Treasury Certificates now being issued and payable in June, it will postpone the opening of the Third Liberty Loan Campaign. Thrift stamp sales will also defer it. No better investment can be found than government securities.

DR. STANLEY L. KREBS.

On Monday evening, Feb. 4th, Dr. Stanley L. Krebs of New York City, will deliver, in Assembly Hall, his famous lecture upon "The Subject 'Two Snakes in Eden'."

The very mention of the name of Dr. Krebs is enough to guarantee a great audience in Bedford where he has been warmly greeted in the past. A little more than three years ago he was brought to Bedford under the auspices of the "Parents Teacher's Association," at which time he lectured in the "Tabernacle" to an audience of about fifteen hundred people all of whom remember how great was that lecture. Even since that time we have been trying to get Dr. Krebs back to Bedford. Last Year the "Brotherhood" boys of St. John's Sunday school made the effort but it was impossible for Dr. Krebs to come. This year by making the engagement far in advance they were able to secure his services and it will be under their auspices that he will appear in Assembly Hall on Feb. 4th.

The "Brotherhood Boys" and their friends will have tickets for sale next week. Those who wish to be sure of a seat will buy their tickets early.

EMERGENCY AID AND NAVY LEAGUE NOTES

The committee is very glad to report that the number of workers at the Surgical Dressings Room has been increasing from week to week. An interesting feature of the Monday afternoon meeting was a table given the workers by Lieut. Roney of the French Army. Lieut. Roney is a nephew of Mrs. John W. Jordan and has been connected with the French Ambulance Service. He spoke of the care of wounded soldiers, both in field and base hospitals, under the French and explained the construction of 1st, 2nd and 3rd line trenches together with the communication trenches and dugouts.

The sum realized from the presentation of "Womanhood" on Jan. 18th was $46.60. It was through no fault of Mr. McLaughlin or the local Committee that the film failed to arrive on scheduled time and the organization is very appreciative of Mr. McLaughlin's generous co-operation. The committee also extend thanks to Miss Anna McLaughlin and members of the orchestra and Inquirer Printing Company for their voluntary services.

For the benefit of those who were unable to use their tickets, the committee on arrangements wishes to state that another film will be procured in the near future and these tickets will be accepted for admission. The officers of the Emergency Aid heartily appreciate the support the people of Bedford have given this War Relief Benefit.

The following contributions have been received: collection from week of Prayer Services $25.17, collection from Bedford Masonic Lodge $6.19 and a check of $5.00 for Navy League fund.

Thirteen handkerchiefs were received from the Embroidery Club of Bedford and will be sent to the American Ambulance Committee.

The Surgical Dressings Committee will be glad to receive any contributions of old muslin or linen for the wrapping of surgical dressings.

A package containing 3 cotton dresses was found in the Room on Monday without name or address. These dresses were very nicely made, and the committee would like to be able to acknowledge them.

In the near future it will be a great convenience if all packages are plainly marked with the name of the branch organization and name of the chairman or chair.

A box of surgical supplies were received this week from Wolfburg but will be listed in next week's report.

Miss Cora McGirr, Chairman of Comforts Committee has recently received the following letter from Pennsylvania Navy League Headquarters, acknowledging our eighth shipment of knitted garments.

NEWS REVIEW OF THE PAST WEEK

Astounding Order by Garfield Stops Nation's Industries for Five Days.

CAUSED BY THE COAL FAMINE

Nine Additional Holidays Decried—Storm of Protests Is Unavailing—Attacks on Secretary Baker Continue—Central Powers Reject Russian Peace Proposals.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

"It is the earnest desire of the fuel administration to prevent entirely any dislocation of industry or of labor." With these words, Fuel Administrator Garfield closed his summary of the most drastic and startling experiment in domestic and war economy made by this or any other government. For five days beginning January 15 every factory and workshop in the region east of the Mississippi and including all of Louisiana and Minnesota, was ordered closed, with the exception of those manufacturing perishable food or food for immediate consumption. Ten successive Mondays beginning January 21 are ordered to be observed as holidays when the consumption of coal shall cease except in specified cases.

Doctor Garfield stated that he expected to save 30,000,000 tons of coal by his order. Very likely he will, but his plan, announced without warning, brought a tremendous storm about his head. Innumerable business men, whose affairs were dislocated despite the "earnest desire" of the administrator, flooded Washington with protests and requests for revocation of the order, but it had been issued after consultation with and by direction of President Wilson and the waters had no chance for relief save in those individual instances where it was necessary to prevent injury to health or destruction of property.

Another and most important angle to the situation was the enforced loss of millions of dollars in wages to workers. Some big concerns did not deduct anything from the pay of their employees, but it was beyond hope that this example would be followed by any considerable number of employers.

Congress, startled out of its usual deliberative calm, got into action immediately. The senate committee on manufacturers called Doctor Garfield before it and heard an explanation that did not explain, and the senate thereupon adopted a resolution asking that the order be delayed for five days for investigation. This Administrator Garfield, on advice of the president, ignored. In the house various resolutions were introduced, but immediate action was blocked by certain Democrats.

As finally issued, the order permitted ship yards and essential war industries to get coal and remain in operation during the five workless days.

The metropolitan press of the country in general bitterly scored Doctor Garfield for his order and declared that it not only was a ghastly mistake, but exposed to the world the utter incompetence of America to meet a condition that throughout the war has confronted the nations allied with us and yet has called for no such panicky action by any one of them. The severe winter weather which paralyzed traffic, and the extraordinary demands for fuel due to wartime conditions are cited by Doctor Garfield as the causes making necessary his order. The miners blame the railroads for the coal shortage, and the railroads blame the "starvation policy" of the government toward them for the last generation. More coal was mined in the United States last year than ever before, the output exceeding that of 1916 by 10,600,000 tons of anthracite and 42,000,000 tons of bituminous. Of the output only about 3 per cent was exported, mostly to Canada. Yet, within the last week England sent coal to us, in order that supply ships might not be stopped.

Out of the fire of congressional investigation the marine corps has come with added luster, the contrast to war department conditions being sadly marked. The house committee said the corps has been kept supplied on a war basis with no apparent delays, while about 25,000 recruits during the year have been properly housed, clothed, fed and trained. The secret of this lies in the fact that Maj. Gen. George Barnett, commandant of the corps, believed in preparedness. Two months before America entered the war, he ordered 50,000 pairs of shoes at $10,000 Lewis, machine guns. His purchasing system has worked smoothly and efficiently, possibly because he has had the assistance of no "star-a-week" civilians, whose capabilities and knowledge are not commensurate with their patriotism. The bureau of construction and repair and of engineering of the navy department also received high praise from the committee.

Secretary Baker and his management of the war department are still the objects of sharp attack and the demands for his resignation or removal increase daily. His long defense before the senate committee was the reverse of satisfactory, and there is decided diversity of opinion as to whether or not his reorganization of bureaus will cure the evils that have infested his department. Daniel Willard told the committee the new plan was faulty in that it did not concentrate control and relied too much on voluntary effort, and immediately thereafter Mr. Willard resigned his post of chairman of the war industries board. It was intimated a new chairman might not be appointed pending action on the proposals for the creation of a war supply department or administration.

Can it be that Mr. Baker, deep in his pacifist soul, believes the war will come to an end before the American troops are called on to fight, and therefore is willing that adequate preparations for their active participation in the conflict shall be delayed? In his review of operations in Europe he says a great German offensive is to be expected on the west front, but he is confident that the war-worn British and French armies can withstand it.

Fierce controversy raged throughout the week between the German groups represented respectively by Von Ludendorff and Von Kuehlmann—the pan-Germans and the nonannexationists. There was a report that the government had compromised the dispute by yielding to Von Kuehlmann as to the east front, and assuring Von Ludendorff that he might grab any land on the west front that the military forces of the empire could seize and hold through the peace negotiations. But this report was unconfirmed.

Berlin stated officially on Thursday that the central powers had found the Russian proposals unacceptable, and that German and Austrian troops would not be withdrawn from the occupied territories while the war lasts. The Austro-Germans, the statement added, do not intend incorporating into their respective countries the territories now occupied by them.

Trotsky clung to his demands for the right of self-determination for all nationalities, and that principle, supported by Lloyd-George and President Wilson, has taken its place as almost the leading peace term of the opponents of the central powers. The German General Hoffmann taunts the bolsheviks with the fact that they are inconsistent because they are fighting the Ukrainians; but on the other hand Lenin, Trotsky and their fellows have permitted the setting up of independent governments in various parts of Russia because the people so willed it. They have just declared, also, that their government supports the right of the Armenians in Russia and Turkey to be independent and to decide their own destiny. The British government has so far recognized the bolsheviks as to establish official relations with their minister in London.

Turkistan announced its independence on Tuesday.

Petrograd announced that after ten days of fighting the bolshevik forces had seized Irkutsk, eastern Siberia, disarming the Cossacks and military cadets. They also have occupied Orenburg.

Among the interesting reports that came out of Russia was one to the effect that the former czar and his family had made their escape from Tobolsk. Another story said the former czarina has become hopelessly insane.

The abandonment of the Roumanian front by the Russian troops led to a nasty little row. Roumanians arrested and disarmed several Russian regiments, and the Russian government at once put under arrest the Roumanian diplomats in Petrograd and threatened war on Roumania if the Russian soldiers were not at once freed. A strong joint protest by representatives of all the allied and neutral powers brought about the release of the Roumanian diplomats.

Then came an astonishing order from the bolshevik government for the arrest of King Ferdinand of Roumania and his incarceration in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. This was attributed to the action of the Roumanians in arresting some Austrian officers who had attempted to pass through the Roumanian lines to fraternize with the Russians.

The British labor party came to the front on Tuesday with a message to the Russian people announcing that the British people accepted the principle of self-determination of peoples and no annexations for the British empire, especially in the middle East, Africa and India. The manifesto concluded with an appeal to the peoples of central Europe to help end the war by the defeat of militarism on both sides, and not to drive the British people, as they are driving the Russians, into the terrible choice between continuing the conflict and abandoning the only principles that can save the world.

There is not much to be written of the week's fighting. The German papers were talking openly of the coming great offensive on the west front and asserted that a million more troops had been sent into France, but Von Hindenburg still delayed the blow. The activity of the aviators was notable, and the allied flying men made several successful bombing raids on German cities, Karlsruhe especially being hard hit.

In Italy the main event of the week was a surprise attack by the Italians, supported by the French, by which certain important dominating positions on Monte Asolone were wrested from the Austrians and their observation posts destroyed.

On Wednesday the Austrians made a desperate attempt to recapture the lost positions. For four hours they attacked fiercely and were stubbornly fought off, finally retiring, leaving the field covered with their dead.

The German submarines have not been very active of late, the weekly report of the British admiralty showing only six large British vessels and four smaller ones sunk. One of the submarines, however, emerged off Yarmouth and shelled that pretty English city violently. Three persons were killed.

Further evidence that the submarine service is most distasteful to the German sailors is contained in the report from Geneva of another mutiny among the submarine crews at Kila, the German naval base. Thirty-eight officers are said to have been killed. The number of U-boats returning to German ports is decreasing every month, according to the Geneva correspondent.

France is in the throes of a new Calliaux scandal, the former premier being now under arrest on a charge of treason. The affair was brought to a crisis by information supplied by Secretary Lansing, for it appears that Calliaux engaged in intrigues with Count von Luxburg in Argentina in 1915 and was in communication with the foreign office at Berlin with the object of concluding peace. His plotting in Italy also has been exposed and documents seized there show he planned to make himself dictator of France and to withdraw that country from the war.

NEW IDEAS ABOUT IMPROVING THE SOIL

The old idea that the best way to grow fine crops is to enrich the ground with manure receives a terrible jolt from Sampson Morgan in an article in Chemical News. He holds that we are ruining the quality of our wheat by feeding the soil with unclean matter; that the latest experiments show that powdered granite rock and decaying leaves are the only fertilizer that will produce the hard wheat with its high content of gluten.

Mr. Morgan urges that all garbage and animal refuse be reduced to ashes before being spread upon the ground. "The soil has been fouled with the filth of civilization," he says.

The importance of purification by fire has been ignored too long, at least by Western nations. The ashes from these fires are of untold value to the cultivator of the soil, and by ceasing to poison the earth by sowing it with foul smelling plant foods, and by letting it with the air and sun and mineralizing it with the sweet refuse of these burnings and with granite dust, we should soon increase the productive powers of the earth a hundred-fold.

TO MAKE CRUSADE UPON VIOLATORS

Deputy Internal Revenue Collector T. N. Caldwell of Altoona announced that he and his assistants were about to start on a rigid crusade against persons who have so far failed to comply with the law in regard to making returns for dances, basketball games, entertainments and the like and all affairs open to the public for which admission is charged. The officer has been exceedingly lenient so far but it is felt that the strong arm of the law will have to come down in a number of cases.

Mr. Caldwell also finds that many theatre proprietors in Altoona have failed to comply with the governmental regulations concerning the stamping of theatre tickets to show that the proper tax has been paid to the government.

The federal officer is calling attention to the recent ruling on this subject contained in the following: "On and after Dec. 15, 1917, no person shall be admitted to any place to which admission is charged, unless the ticket, card, or pass, by which he is admitted, bears evidence that the tax due in respect of the admission covered by it has been paid. This evidence shall consist of the printing or stamping upon the ticket, card, pass, or other papers evidencing the right to admission the words 'tax paid.'"

ADMINISTER MEDICINE IN POWDERS UNDER THE TONGUE

That powerful medicines can be administered as well, and in many cases much better, by placing them in powdered form under the tongue than by giving them to drink or as hypodermic injections is the purport of an article by Dr. Beverley Robinson of New York in the Medical Record.

Dr. Robinson says he has had several cases in the past summer in which the great and immediate utility of this form of medication was proved, and he is anxious to have other practitioners give it a wide and thorough trial not only in civil practice but also on the firing line.

He speaks of the danger of the hypodermic syringe transmitting disease from one man to another unless it is sterilized, the water be boiled or distilled and the patient's skin thoroughly cleansed with alcohol or ether all of which takes so much time and pains that it cannot be done at the front.

Instead of this, how much simpler it is to powder a small hypodermic tablet on a napier with a penknife and pour it behind the front teeth and under the tongue! In a few moments it is completely dissolved and absorbed, and the effects of the drug are observed. If there be great pain it is almost magically relieved.

In heart failure, Dr. Robinson asserts, the circulation may be restored when hope is nearly lost. Even unconscious patients may be restored by this method and without any risk. The most valuable heart stimulant, in his opinion, is strophanthus, which can be easily administered under the tongue.

In cases of poisoning, when quick emetic effect is desired, a hypodermic tablet of apomorphine hydrochloride, 1-15 grain, and one of strychnine, 1-30 grain, may be placed under the tongue with the happiest possible results.

The apomorphine works upon the vomiting centre in the nervous system and not upon the stomach, hence it will act even when deep coma has set in. But fresh tablets must be used, as the drug changes rapidly under the action of air, light and moisture.

The mucous membrane under the tongue is "very thin, full of vessels, never coated with fur as the tongue and stomach so frequently are, and never, as the latter often does, containing food, more or less digested, and not seldom acids and gases of fermentation, which must surely interfere with or completely neutralize for a time medicinal results which must be rapid in order to be effective and beneficial." Medicine administered under the tongue is absorbed very rapidly and is absolutely without risk.

ward halted, but did not shoot. And as King caught up with them he saw they were talking with someone.

He had to ride up close before he recognized the Orakzal Pathan.

"Salama!" said the fellow with a grin. "I bring one hundred and eleven."

As he spoke graveyard shadows rose out of the darkness around and leaned on rifles.

"Be ye men all ex-soldiers of the raj?" King asked them.

"Aye!" they growled in chorus.

"Who gave you leave to come?" King asked.

"None! He told us of the pardons and we came!"

"Aye!" said the Orakzal Pathan, drawing King aside. "But she gave me leave to seek them out and tempt them!"

"And what does she intend?" King asked him suddenly.

"She? Ask Allah, who put the spirit in her! How should I know?"

"We will march again, my brothers!" King shouted, and they streamed along behind him, now with no advance guard, but with the Orakzal Pathan striding beside King's horse, with a great hand on the saddle. Like the others, he seemed decided in his mind that the hakim ought not to be allowed much chance to escape.

Just as the dawn was tinting the surrounding peaks with softest rose they topped a ridge, and Khinjan lay below them across the mile-wide bonedry valley. And while they watched, and the Khinjan men were beginning to murmur (for they needed no last view of the place to satisfy any longings!) none else than Ismail rose from behind a rock and came to King's stirrup. He tugged and King backed his horse until they stood together apart.

"She sends this message," said Ismail, showing his teeth in the most peculiar grin that surely the "Hills" ever witnessed. "Many of her men, who have never been in the army, are none the less true to her, and she will not leave them to the mullah's mercy. They will leave the caves in a little while, and will come up here. They are to go down into India and be made prisoners if the sarkar will not enlist them. You are to wait for them here."

"Is that all her message?" King asked him.

"Nay. That is none of it! This is her message: THOU SHALT KNOW THIS DAY, THOU ENGLISHMAN, WHETHER OR NOT SHE TRULY

"Thou Shalt Know This Day, Thou Englishman, Whether or Not She Truly Loves Thee."

LOVED THEE! THERE SHALL BE PROOF SUCH AS EVEN THOU SHALT UNDERSTAND!"

Ismail slipped away and lost himself among the men, and none of them seemed to notice that he had been away and had come again. It was a little more than an hour after dawn and the chilled rocks were beginning to grow warmer when the head of a procession came out of Khinjan gate and started toward them over the valley. In all more than five hundred men emerged and about a hundred women and children. Then:

"Muhammad Anim comes!" shouted a voice from a crag top.

They snuggled into better hiding, and there was no thought now of leaving before the mullah should go by. It needed an effort to quiet them when the mullah rose into view at last above the rise and paused for a minute to stare across at Khinjan before leading his four thousand down and onward. He was silent as an image, but his men roared like a river in flood and he made no effort to check them.

He dismounted, for he had to, and tossed his reins to the nearest man with the air of an emperor. And he led the way down the cliffside without hesitation, striding like a mountaineer. His men followed him noisily.

It was thirty minutes after the last of the mullah's men had vanished through the gate, and his own men in dozens and twenties were scattered along the cliff-top arguing against delay with growing rancor, when a lone horseman galloped out of Khinjan gate and started across the valley. He rode recklessly. He was either panic-stricken or else bolder than the devil.

In a minute King had recognized the mare, and so had the eyes of fifty men around him. No man with half an eye for a horse could have failed to recognize that black mare, having ever seen her once. In another two minutes King had recognized the Rangar's silken turban.

Most of the men were staring downward at the Rangar's head as he urged the mare up the cliff path, with the explanation of Yasmin's message came. It was only King, urged by some intuition, who had his eyes fixed on Khinjan.

There came a shock that actually swayed the hill they stood on. The mare on the path below missed her footing and fell a dozen feet, only to get up again and scramble as if a thousand devils were behind her, the Rangar riding her grimly, like a jockey in a race. Three more shocks followed. A great slice of Khinjan suddenly caved in with a roar, and smoke and dust burst upward through the tumbling crust.

There was a pause after that, as if the waiting elements were gathering strength. For ten minutes they watched and scarcely breathed. Rewa Gunga gained the summit and, dismounting, stood by King with the reins over his arm. The mare was too blown to do anything but stand and tremble. And King was too enthralled to do anything but stare.

"That is what a woman can do for a man!" said Rewa Gunga grimly. "She set a fuse and exploded all the dynamite. There were tons of it! The galleries must have fallen in, one on the other! A thousand men digging for a thousand years could never get into Khinjan now, and the only way out is down Earth's Drink! She bade me come and bid you goodbye, sahib. I would have stayed in there, but she commanded me. She said, 'Tell King, sahib, my love was true. Tell him I give him India and all Asia that were at my mercy!'"

While the Rangar spoke there came three more earth tremors in swift succession, and a thunder out of Khinjan as if the very "Hills" were coming to an end. The mare grew frantic and the Rangar summoned six men to hold her.

Suddenly, right over the top of Khinjan's upper rim, where only the eagles ever perched, there burst a column of water, immeasurable, huge, that for a moment blotted out the sun. It rose sheer upward, curved on itself, and fell in a million-ton deluge on to Khinjan and into Khinjan valley, hissing and roaring and thundering.

Earth's Drink had been blocked by the explosion and had found a new way over the barrier before plunging down again into the bowels of the world. The one sky-fung leap it made as its weight burst down a mountain wall was enough to blot out Khinjan forever, and what had been a dry, mile-wide moat was a shallow lake with death's rack and rubbish floating on the surface.

The earth rocked. King was up on his feet in a second and faced about. The Rangar laughed.

"So ends the 'Heart of the Hills'!" he said. "Think kindly of her, sahib. She thought well enough of you!"

He laughed again and sprang on the black mare, and before King could speak or raise a hand to stop him he was off at wondrous speed along the precipice in the direction of the Khyber pass and India. Two of the men who had come out of Khinjan mounted and spurred after him.

King collected his men and the women and children. It was easy, for they were numb from what they had witnessed and dazed by fear. In half an hour he had them mustered and marching.

CHAPTER XXIII.

They reached the Khyber famished and were fed at All Masjid fort, after King had given a certain password and had whispered to the officer commanding. But he did not change into European clothes yet, and none of his following suspected him of being an Englishman.

"A Rangar on a black mare has gone down the pass ahead of you in a hurry," they told him at All Masjid. "He had two men with him and food enough. Only stopped long enough to make his business known."

"What did he say his business is?" asked King.

"He gave a sign and said a word that satisfied us on that point!"

"Oh!" said King. "Can you signal down the pass?"

"Surely!"

"Courtenay at Jamrud?"

"Yes. In charge there and growing tired of doing nothing."

"Signal down and ask him to have that bath ready for me that I spoke about. Goodbye."

So he left All Masjid at the head of a motley procession that grew noisier and more confident every hour. Ismail began to grow more lively and to have a good many orders to fling to the rest.

"You mourn like a dog," King told him. "Three howls and a whine and a little sulking—and then forgetfulness!"

Ismail looked nasty at that but did not answer, although he seemed to have a hot word ready. And thenceforward he hung his head more, and at least tried to seem bereaved. But his manner was unconvincing none the less, and King found it food for thought.

The ex-soldiers and would-be soldiers marched in four behind him, growing hourly more like drilled men, and talking, with each stride that brought them nearer India, more as men do who have an interest in law and order. Behind them tramped the women from Khinjan, carrying their babies and their husbands' loads; and behind them again were the other women, who had been told they would be overtaken in the Khyber, but who had actually had to run themselves raw-footed in order to catch up.

Down the Khyber have come conquerors, a dozen conquering kings, and as many beaten armies; but surely no stranger host than this ever trudged between the echoing walls. The very eagles screamed at them. Signals pre-

INCOME TAX NOTICE

(Contributed)

Please read carefully and be guided accordingly, as the income tax man, who leaves here March 1st, 1918, cannot intelligently assist you unless you can intelligently present your figures, get together your figures and go to see him at once, at W. S. Reed's Insurance Office, Bedford, Pa., as all returns must be in the hands of the collector of Internal Revenue at Lancaster, Pa., by March 1st, 1918 for the calendar year 1917.

There are separate blocks on the income tax forms for reporting different kinds of income, as described below:

A—In this block is to be shown income from salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses and pensions to yourself, wife (or husband) or child, unless paid by state or any political subdivision thereof.

B—Income from business, farm or profession. Total cash or equivalent received from the sale of merchandise, farm products, or professional or business. In business, if inventory at the end of the year was greater than that at the beginning of the year, the difference is profit or income and should be added to the cash receipts. From this total, to arrive at your net income, can be deducted the actual expenses of carrying on the business, which should be segregated, amount paid for labor or help, not including yourself or wife or children under 21 years of age, amount paid for rent, if any, and other expenses including fuel, light, water, telephone, etc., and merchandise or live stock bought for sale. Do not include cost of business equipment or living or family expenses. If books are kept showing income accrued, such income may be reported instead of cash received and expenses incurred may be reported instead of expenses paid.

C—Profit from sale of land, building and other property, real or personal. The kind of property, whether real estate, stocks or bonds, or whatever it is should be shown, also the year in which it was acquired, the sale price and the cost.

D—Income from rents and royalties. The kind of property, brick or wood, farm, mine or whatever it is should be shown. If buildings, the cost of the buildings, exclusive of the cost of the land should be shown. Amount of cash or equivalent received. Depreciation, or actual repairs up to an amount that would not exceed the depreciation that would take place on a building from year to year. Other expenses including water, rent and insurance actually paid during the year on rental property only.

E—Other Income.

State each source separately, such as interest on bank deposits, notes, mortgages, etc., and interest on bonds that are not tax free, income received from a partnership which represents the distribution of interest whether actually distributed or not, and income through a fiduciary.

F—In this block is shown the total net income from the above sources.

G—General deductions not included above. All interest actually paid within the year on indebtedness, except indebtedness incurred for the purchase of Federal Farm Loan bonds or bonds of the United States or its possessions, or of any state or political subdivision thereof. All taxes actually paid, except inheritance taxes, Federal income taxes, or taxes especially assessed for local improvements or betterments, such as roads, streets, sidewalks, sewers, etc. Contributions made within the year to organizations, operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific or educational purposes, or to societies for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. Give name of organization and amount contributed to each.

H—Interest on bonds of confiscation that have agreed (by a "tax free covenant clause in the bond") to relieve you of income tax on such interest.

I—Dividends received, if any, on capital stock of corporations organized or closing business in the United States and subject to income tax, including dividends paid in stock and dividends received through partnership or fiduciaries.

HOUSE FLY SURVIVES WINTER.

Experiments on the overwintering of house flies, says a report of the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, lead to the conclusion that in the latitude of Washington as well as farther South the house fly overwinters in the larva and pupa stages. The fly was found also to breed continuously during the winter in heated buildings where there was food for the adult flies and materials in which the eggs could be laid and in which the larvae could develop.

WE WILL NOT FAIL.

"I would lose something of my trust in the Justice of Almighty God if I doubted the ultimate triumph of our righteous cause. In the faith of the Puritans, in the valor of the Cavaliers, in the endurance of the patriots from Concord to Yorktown through bleeding marches and starving days, in the unspeakable agony of Belgium, in the splendid and unconquerable courage of France, in the daring and suffering of Italy, in the grim and uncompromising sacrifices of Great Britain and her colonialists from the four quarters of the globe, in memory of the women and children of the Lusitania and the crews of peaceful merchantmen done to death by the assassins of the sea, in punishment of the lawlessness of the German Government and the perfidy of her broken promises, in vindication of our right to order our ways as we choose, and in loyalty to the sovereignty of man above the usurpations of royal pretenders, let us take heart to strike in the full measure of our strength, to the limit of our energies and resources, as becomes the sons of men whose name and fame we bear."

—Clarence Ousley, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, in address at St. Louis.

WATER SUPPLY FOR POULTRY

A supply of pure drinking water frequently renewed is as necessary for poultry as sufficient supplies of food.

There are two different types of drinking vessels for poultry in common use: Open vessels—pails, pans, crocks, and the like; and drinking fountains so constructed that dust and dirt can not get into the water except by way of a very small exposed surface.

These quite opposite types of drinking vessel are about equally popular with poultry keepers. Open vessels catch more dirt and dust, but are more easily cleaned. Closed fountains may be used much longer without cleaning, but if allowed to become foul are harder to clean thoroughly.

Placing open drinking vessels on a shelf a foot or more above the floor prevents the hens from scratching coarse litter into them, but does not keep out fine dust which floats in the air and settles in the water.

Thoroughly rinsing open vessels once a day and scalding drinking fountains once or twice a week will usually keep them as clean as necessary.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Many Aches and Ills of Bedford People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so many weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and generally when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills frequently come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards dropsy, or fatal Bright's disease. When the kidneys fail there is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Bedford testimony is proof of their effectiveness.

Miss Susie Fletcher, 113 W. Penn St., says: "I suffered from severe case of kidney complaint. I had heavy, dull aches in my back and side, so I was unable to bend over or lift anything. These troubles bothered me more severely when I caught a cold. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Dull's Drug Store, and soon got relief."

LEARN TO USE BROWN SUGAR AS OUR GRANDMOTHERS DID

"We must get our old cook books and revive some of the things our grandmothers used to make," says Prof. Mary Rausch of the Department of Home Economics, University of Washington, in commenting on the necessity that faces housekeepers of learning how to do without granulated sugar for cooking.

When the cook books that were printed in our grandmothers' day speak of sugar they do not mean the granulated sugar to which we are accustomed, but the heavier, dark, moist sugar that has a flavor resembling molasses or syrup. For many purposes this is really better than the granulated white sugar. One of the largest bakers in Seattle uses nothing else, and he says the flavor of all sweated breads is much improved by it.

Brown sugar or syrup should be used in all biscuits, muffins, cakes, puddings and pies. For years the best gingerbreads and spica cakes have been made with nothing else. And there are many candies for which it is better than white. A delicious cake icing is made by boiling brown sugar to a syrup and pouring it over the stiffly beaten whites of eggs.

The War Cabinet Bill is Doomed to Defeat

The War Cabinet Bill which Senator Chamberlain is sponsoring is bound to be defeated. You cannot knock at the government and tell the people you are patriotic. We are in a great struggle to win this war and we need all the influence we can muster and Chamberlain's bill is a knocker and a bill to destroy all good will and confidence. There was nothing in the testimony against Secretary Baker which brands him as an incompetent. In fact the testimony only confirms the fact that he is competent. To raise an army of 1,500,000 and equip them in nine months is marvelous. Think of 1,500,000 soldiers, with 1,500,000 soldier's shoes, 1,500,000 caps, all articles of clothing and ammunition and American industry not in any shape to produce the goods, and all done in nine months with the exceptions of a few non-essentials at this time. Think of the immensity of the accomplishment and then think that they are charging Secretary Baker with incompetency. Does Senator Chamberlain suppose that the people cannot think for themselves. The whole will react on Chamberlain.

Woman's Suffrage

The day has passed when it was necessary to produce lengthy argument in favor of Woman's Suffrage. The justice of the question is generally conceded. Now that the suffrage amendment has passed one branch of Congress, it is hoped that the United States Senate will favor it still more decidedly than the House did, and that Pennsylvania's Senators will follow the lead of her Representatives.

When Roosevelt alighted from the train at Washington, his first expression was, "here I am, arrest me if you want to." He must have had some seditions intentions, which prompted such a remark.

Senator Stone's speech in the United States Senate doesn't comport with his former acts no more than Roosevelt's acts conform to his former speeches. Both are on the decline not only in years but in sympathy with the people.

And Roosevelt went to Washington to "tell the truth."

CUMBERLAND VALLEY BEDFORD ROAD

Quite a little excitement prevailed here last week when the pure oil pipe burst at Mr. Harvey Leasure's. About 5 hundred barrels ran out before the pumps could be shut off at Weidersburg. The oil ran in the spring and milk house of Mr. Leasure causing him much damage and inconvenience. As it may be a year before they can use their water again (Drink the oil, it will make 'em fat.)

Fourteen below zero this morning and snow still deep and drifted makes traveling except in sleds very difficult around here. The bus has given notice it will not run any more until better weather which makes it inconvenient to those who depended on that way to go.

Mr. Jonas Brant has moved his family to Cumberland. He is working for the tree plant.

Jungle, jungle, the farmers are going to town. I counted twelve sleds in one string besides the one's two's and three's. Friday, one man took in eighty bushels of oats receiving $73 for the load. Cumberland Valley is sending in her food stuffs and getting good prices moving the produce around. Is what Hoover likes to hear about.

F. V. Growden and C. Benjamin who were working on P. A. Cessna's house have returned home it being finished for plastering and F. V. Growden has gone to Luke to work on a government plant for the manufacture of alcohol other carpenters went from Cumberland.

Mr. Snyder doesn't like the name of sleds to have rattled this off blame the delay on the weather. Best wishes for Gazette and Editor (Thank you)

SNYDER'S TRAVELETTE

Cold Hound at Home in Cumberland.
Warm Breeze From Florida Friend.

Old Boreas advised me to hike to warmer regions and let the people alone in the country till after the war between Frost and Sun. I arrived in Cumberland the evening of the opening of the new Fort Cumberland hotel but the Snyder house had more attractions for me than the big hotel with all its swell. A three dollar dinner was served at the hotel for one-fifty. I would not give one penny for a dozen $2 hotel menus. Samples are not satisfying to a hungry man—one wants the real thing for a real stomach. Most everyone we meet these days makes the same remark about the war and the weather. President Wilson is getting the people to be of one mind. This cold weather encourages the women to keep on knitting sweaters for the soldiers who are not sweating now. I received a letter from my old friend Somner Hendrickson, a former resident of lower Cumberland Valley township which no doubt will be more cheerful reading at this time than any of my travellette. Mr. Hendrickson is a retired railroad engineer who moves north and south with the wild geese. Read his letter.

D. W. Snyder.

Miami, Dade Co., Florida, Jan. 16, '18

Mr. D. W. Snyder,

Dear Friend,

Through the kindness of Mrs. Fred Growden, I received a copy of the Bedford Gazette and find you now with that paper. Come down here to write your Nudges, so warm here that everything expands instead of contracting as it has been doing in the north this winter. Eighty degrees here in the shade on yesterday, but you need not go in the shade if you do not wish to. If I should tell you about all I have seen here your paper would be swamped so I will briefly say, The City is called "The Magic City" as it is only about twenty years old and has 30,000 inhabitants. City on Biscayne Bay, two miles from the ocean. City built on rock of coral formation which is soft when first quarried, but on exposure to sun and air becomes hard and is used in building houses and making roads. Miami river runs through the city, small steamers go up the river about ten miles, to the locks of the canal, which they are now building to take Okchobee in the heart of the Everglades "the home of the Seminoles, and the Alligators and other 'varmints.' To see flowers blooming and all vegetables growing here in the winter seems to me to be a reversal of nature. Perhaps you remember that in our boyhood days we had a story in one of our books called "Hafed's Dream or the world of chance." The conditions here remind me of the story.

Had a letter from Rev. E. W. Somerville of Brightwood, Virginia in which he wants to know what has become of Phillip's Boy. Mr. Joseph Bridges a former B. and O. Engineer and later an Engineer on the Isthmus of Panama invited myself and several of his friends here to dinner on Christmas day, at his very fine home on N. Avenue. We had turkey with all the "fixins" and other things too numerous to mention. Mr. Bridges and his estimable wife, a daughter of Mr. Peter Donahoe of Bean's Cove, have traveled much and entertain royally. The day was fine here, windows and doors open, fresh vegetables from his garden, Punch a La Bryan before and after dinner and many other good things enjoyed made us loathe to say goodbye. Late in the day we were brought home in the Auto with very pleasant remembrances of the day spent with friends that know so well how to make one feel at home.

Please keep your cold weather up there, what little you did send us was not appreciated. With best wishes to you and all your readers I remain your friend.

COMING! COMING!
January 28th to February 1th.

Everybody be on the lookout for the Smileage Boys. There will be about twenty five of them. Beginning next Monday Jan. 28, they will start out on a canvass of our town with a smile on their faces and a Smileage Book in their hands. Meet them with a smile and one dollar. The object of this Smileage Book is to raise money to furnish good, clean entertainment, such as you see at the best Theatres and Chautauquas, for our Boys that are in the Camps. Every Book we sell means that many smiles for some Boy that has gone out to fight for us and our Homes. Don't turn the Boys away without buying a Smileage Book. They cost $1.00 and $3.00. If $1.00 is worth a hundred Smiles, they won't $3.00 be worth five hundred. The Committee will see that every boy that has gone out from Bedford gets a Smileage Book, providing you do your share and buy at least one Smileage Book. Following is a little poem by Strickland Gillilan.

The Smileage Idea.
When Khaki'd men desire to go
To lecture, concert, play or show
It is not right that they should bear,
From out their wages, any share
Of the expense. We want to give,
To those who serve that we may live,
The very best of all life's pleasure—
They guard our homes and lives and treasure.

Let every officer and "rook"
Get in scotfree to have a look,
That's why we make this Smileage Book.

And if you think 'tis right to try it,
Please bundle up your coin and buy it.
Smile, smile, and then smile again and buy.

If the Boys should miss you in their canvass you can get these Smileage Books at Murdock's, Jacobs, Smith's, Samuels, Allens, Dulls, and all the Banks.

WEEKLY WAR REVIEW

Peace negotiations between representatives of the Teutonic allies and the Russian government at Brest-Litovsk have again been suspended, and Foreign Minister Trotsky is reported to have returned to Petrograd. Opinion among foreign observers in Petrograd seems to be that the negotiations are working their way to a final break, and the fall of the price of the German mark in neutral markets is pointed to as an indication of loss of confidence among the neutrals that the parleys would culminate in an agreement.

The sticking point, it is clear from even the German accounts, remains the continued declaration of the central powers to withdraw all their troops from the occupied regions of Russia and their uncertain attitude regarding the return of the deported population before the questions of self-determination is put. The Russians apparently are sticking just as firmly as ever to their demands along these lines.

Convening Friday in Petrograd, during street fighting, the Russian constituent assembly was dissolved early Saturday morning by the Bolsheviks after a vote had shown that the government headed by Lenin and Trotsky was greatly in the minority.

Fighting on the western front during the week has been below normal. Only local raids and reciprocal bombardments were reported. On the Italian front the Italians put down a number of Austrian attacks against their positions on the Piave river.

British forces operating in Palestine made another advance at a point twelve miles north of Jerusalem.

London announced on Jan. 21 that military operations are increasing on the western front. Around Ypres, between Lens and St. Quentin, on the Chemin-des-Dames, on the Rhine-Marne canal, there has been a notable increase in infantry activity.

In a naval action between British and Turkish forces at the entrance to the Dardanelles, the Turkish cruiser Midilli, formerly the German cruiser Breslau, was sunk and the Sultan Yavuz Selim, formerly the Goeben, was beached. The British lost two monitors.

Berlin reported on Jan. 22 that the German and Ukrainian governments at Brest-Litovsk had reached an agreement on peace. Ukraine is a large district lying in southern Russia between the river Don and the Austro-Hungarian frontier. It borders on the Black sea. It also was announced that peace negotiations were resumed with the Bolshevik government.

The crisis in Austria arising from discontent of the people over continuation of the war scarcity of food and a general desire for peace resulted in the resignation of the Austrian cabinet. Nationwide strikes and disorders have been reported.

BEDFORD WOMEN AND WAR WORK. HAVE MADE A FINE RECORD. STILL HARD AT WORK.

Women and war. We do not like the combination. But whether we like it or not the grim fact confronts us that the heaviest burden of war falls upon our women. They are called upon to make the greatest sacrifices, to pay the greatest price in suffering. The women of Bedford, true to their type everywhere, have, since the war began, made tremendous sacrifices of time and energy and have performed a wonderful work through the "Navy League and Emergency Aid" and through their support of the work of the "Red Cross," and indeed through what they have done in behalf of the suffering Armenians and Syrians. Now, through the "Women's Council of National Defense," Mrs. J. W. Galbraith President, they are about to start a drive in Bedford County in behalf of the "Young Women's Christian Association." Any one who knows of the wonderful work that has been done by the "Young Women's Christian Association" during these war times will be only too glad to help the good work along. It has, from the beginning, been a work of "power and love"—the power of consecrated womanhood and the motive power of God's love. The greatest danger for any country in these terrible times is not the invasion of an enemy with bullets and bayonets but it is the invasion of low social and moral ideals. War represents the unbridling of animal passions. It increases by a hundredfold the temptation to lower our standards. The Y. W. C. A. is making a brave fight to keep these standards high. At every encampment of soldiers they are erecting and taking charge of a large "Hostess House," a home-like place where the boys can get good things to eat and where women and girls can go in safety to meet their friends. Some of the camps are more than ten miles long. To these come hundreds of women and girls to see relatives and friends. Often they have no knowledge of the company or regiment in which their friends are located. The Y. M. C. A. takes care of these women and helps them to locate the one whom they seek. Much more than this even is the work that is being done by this organization as it goes into the great industrial centers not only in America, but throughout the world, where women are working in munition plants and all kinds of factories and where, because of conditions brought about by the war, decent lodgings and nourishing food are scarcely to be had. The Y. M. C. A. furnishes both of these and along with them recreation for the girls in the hours of leisure so that the devil shall not have the advantage of "idle hands." As an example of the need of such work, at Petersburg, Va., near Camp Lee, the only endurable boarding houses charge from $7 to $9 a week for meals and it costs $25 a month for a room in a desirable locality. No other organization is so well fitted to do this splendid work in behalf of women as is the Y. M. C. A. There are 360,000 members in the U. S. and over 800,000 throughout the world. They are in close touch with the problems of women in other countries as well as in our own. Their work is like the old lady's passages marked in the bible "T & P—Tried and Proven." What would we do in such times as these without our noble women and the work which they are doing? Without their deeds of mercy war would be worse than Sherman said it is. It is confidently expected that Bedford County will make a fine showing when called upon in the near future to help in this great work for the Y. M. C. A. Let us understand one another. There is no intention of forming an organization in Bedford County at this time. It is desired simply that we "do our bit" by giving what we can to an organization which in war times is not local but has become national and international. What would you give if you knew that it meant the saving of your daughter? There are thousands of daughters that need to be saved. Now is the time.

RAIL WAGE COMMISSION

McAdoo Announces Appointment of Four Men.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Director General McAdoo announced the appointment of a railroad wage commission of four public men to analyze and recommend action on all wage and labor questions pending before the government railroad administration, including the railway brotherhoods' demands.

At the same time the director general put into effect a new system of government railroad administration by dividing the country into three operating regions, east, south and west, and placed a railroad executive at the head of each as his representative.

The wage commission consists of Secretary Lane, Interstate Commerce Commissioner C. C. McChord, Judge J. Harry Covington, chief justice of the District of Columbia supreme court, and William R. Wilcox, who announced his resignation as chairman of the Republican national committee.

Wages of Women Workers.
Columbus, Jan. 21.—Women workers in Ohio are being paid 50 per cent better wages than three years ago and 25 per cent better than a year ago, according to 1917 figures being compiled by G. F. Miles, statistician for the industrial commission. An increase of about $2 a week took place last June. This month marked an increase nearly everywhere in the state. The majority of women now are getting $10 or more a week, according to Miles.

Prisoner Pardoned.
Columbus, Jan. 19.—Thomas C. Matthews, sent to the penitentiary last April from Lucas county for embezzlement, was pardoned by Governor Cox. Matthews has a wife and invalid daughter, who is becoming blind.

PARTISAN FRAY
IN THE SENATEStone's Attack on Roosevelt
Draws Republican Fire.

DOZEN PARTICIPATE IN DEBATE

Missouri Senator Calls the Colonel the Most Seditious Man of Consequence in America—Penrose, New Lodge, Lewis, Kirby and Others Join in the Political Flare-Up—Synopsis of the Debate.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Calling Theodore Roosevelt "the most seditious man of consequence in America" and accusing Republicans of playing politics in their criticisms of the government's conduct of the war, Senator Stone (Dem., Mo.) delivered a prepared speech in the senate.

There were many sharp interruptions during the two hours Senator Stone was speaking and when he closed, Senators Penrose, Lodge, New and others on the Republican side answered with vigorous defense of their right to make proper criticism of inefficiencies and with counter charges of partisanship.

Senators Lewis, Kirby and Denby joined the fray, which ended with adjournment until Thursday. It was suggested in the lobbies that the two-day recess was arranged in the hope that both sides would cool off and permit the controversy to be dropped.

Senator Stone delivered his attack in characteristically vehement fashion. He strode to the middle aisle, shouting, menacing with clenched fist or wagging finger at his political opponents on the other side.

Senator Penrose, in his reply, couched his desire to oust the Democrats from control of the government, declaring a more efficient administration would be thus secured.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts spoke more seriously. He deplored injection of politics into the war, defended Colonel Roosevelt, declared that the Republicans have given and will continue to give their support to the administration toward winning the war, but will continue criticisms of mistakes and inefficiency.

Stone's Charges.

Senator Penrose declared Private Ernest L. Snyder at Camp Taylor, near Louisville, Ky., had been sentenced to 10 years at hard labor and dishonorably discharged for "vilifying the president and objecting to the draft law. Nothing has occurred in Russia of a greater outrage."

Citing statements of the Republican leaders regarding the political plans and editorials of Colonel Roosevelt, which he said "are villainous screeds" published for money, Senator Stone declared: "On my responsibility as a senator I charge that since our entrance into the war, Roosevelt, by his attacks on the government, has been a menace and obstruction to the successful prosecution of the war."

"Of all men," the Missouri senator continued, "Roosevelt is most responsible for what he denounces. He does his work cunningly. In the front of his propaganda he throws a deceptive political camouflage. I charge that Theodore Roosevelt is the most potent agent of the Kaiser in America. I can not escape the belief that this exceptional colonel, who has played so many games of questionable politics, is now playing another game of his particular brand for a very great stake."

Columbus, Jan. 19.—President Wilson was asked by the Ohio Prohibition state convention to stop at once the manufacture of all intoxicating liquors and to close all saloons, as a conservation measure. The convention also adopted a resolution demanding the same prohibitory regulations for soldiers on French soil that are in effect in the United States. The platform declares for prohibition, woman suffrage, public ownership of public utilities, revision of taxation system and arbitration of labor disputes. Nomination of a state ticket was deferred until after the Chicago convention.

WILSON REPLIES TO CHAMBERLAIN

Holds Senator's Statement a Distortion of the Truth.

OPPOSED TO A WAR CABINET

Proposed Legislation, Says the President, Comes After Effective Measures of Reorganization Have Been Made—Secretary of War Upheld and Congressional Investigations Rapped—Chamberlain's Reply.

Washington, Jan. 22.—President Wilson issued a statement characterizing as an "astonishing and unjustifiable distortion of the truth" assertions made by Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, in a speech at New York concerning inaction and inefficiency on the part of the government in its war preparations, and declared opposition to the proposed reorganization of the war management.

Investigations conducted at the capitol, the president said, had brought to the foreground delays and disappointments and had contributed to them by drawing officials away from their work. "Nothing helpful or likely to speed or facilitate the war tasks of the government has come out of such criticism and investigation," he added.

Legislation proposed by the senate military committee for the creation of a war council and minister of munitions, the president declared, had come after effective measures of reorganization already had been maturely perfected.

The president said he regarded Secretary Baker as one of the ablest public officials he had ever known, and that the country soon would learn whether he or his critics understood the business at hand.

All doubt as to Wilson's view of proposals for reorganization of the government war-making machinery was swept away by the statement in which the president said the war department had accomplished a task of unparalleled magnitude and difficulty, with extraordinary promptness and efficiency.

Senator Chamberlain, whose committee has framed bills to create a war council all-powerful under the president and to provide one-man control of munitions and supplies, declared he would continue his fight in spite of presidential opposition. When he heard of the president's statement he made one in reply, saying he had spoken extemporaneously at New York and that his criticisms were directed only at the military establishment, not at other departments of the government.

The president concluded his statement with these words: "To add as Senator Chamberlain did, that there is inefficiency in every department and bureau of the government is to show such ignorance of actual conditions as to make it impossible to attach any importance to his statement. I am bound to infer that that statement sprang out of opposition to the administration's whole policy rather than out of any serious intention to reform its practice."

AFTER BOOTLEGGERS

Roundup Likely in Towns Near Camp Sherman.

Chillicothe, O., Jan. 22.—Civil and military authorities at Camp Sherman issued a warning that surrounding towns and villages where select have been furnished with liquor and have had access to resorts, will be cleaned up. Military police have made several arrests in Chillicothe recently for violation of the statute forbidding the sale of liquor to soldiers.

Reynolds, stable boy preferred by State Fire Marshal Fleming, reported single and joint indictments against both men. ## Strengthen America

"Food will win the war"

It hits you in the face wherever you go--this slogan of the Hoover campaign for food conservation--"food will win the war!"

When the Senate's Committee on Agriculture was investigating the subject of food-stuff, the liquor men denied that they consumed as much as the prohibitionists said they did--they declared that they used only one per cent. of the grain.

All right let's take them at their word.

One per cent. of the grain will feed one per cent. of the people-- because there are one hundred million of us in this country.

We shall probably send one million soldiers to France.

This means that the liquor men have been wasting enough foodstuffs to feed every last man who will go to the trenches! If food will win the war--as Hoover says -- then the liquor men have a fearful responsibility resting upon them when they deliberately waste the food which would give life and strength to our soldiers. But what about the man whose vote gives the liquor men the right to do this? Every vote for the "drys" will help save the soldiers at the front.

Have you a boy "over there" ? Is he worth saving? Than vote "dry".

If you believe that the traffic in Alcohol does more harm than good--- help stop it!

FACE the FACTS

LET us face the facts. The war situation is critical. Unless the Allies fight as they never yet have fought, defeat threatens. Hungry men cannot fight at their best; nor hungry nations. France, England, and Italy are going hungry unless we feed them.

Wheat Savings—They must have wheat. It is the best food to fight on. It is the easiest to ship. We alone can spare it to them. By saving just a little-- less than a quarter of what we ate last year--we can support those who are fighting our battles. And we can do it without stinting ourselves. We have only to substitute another food just as good.

The Corn of Plenty—Corn is that food. There's a surplus of it. Providence has been generous in the hour of our need. It has given us corn in such bounty as was never known before. Tons of corn. Trainloads of corn. Five hundred million bushels over and above our regular needs. All we have to do is to learn to appreciate it. Was ever patriotic duty made so easy? And so clear?

America's Own Food—Corn! It is the true American food. The Indians, hardest of races, lived on it. Our forefathers adopted the diet and conquered a continent. For a great section of our country it has long been the staff of life. How well the South fought on it, history tells. Now it can help America win a world war.

Learn Something—Corn! It isn't one food. It's a dozen. It's a cereal. It's a vegetable. It's a bread. It's a dessert. It's nutritious; more food value in it, dollar for dollar, than meat or eggs or most other vegetables. It's good to eat; how good you don't know until you've had corn-bread properly cooked. Best of all, it's plentiful and it's patriotic.

Corn's Infinite Variety—How much do you know about corn? About how good it is? About the many delicious ways of cooking it? And what you miss by not knowing more about it? Here are a few of its uses:

There are at least fifty ways to use corn meal to make good dishes for dinner, supper, lunch or breakfast. Here are some suggestions:

HOT BREADS	DESSERTS
Boston brown bread.	Corn-meal molasses cake.
Hoeecake.	Apple corn bread.
Muffins.	Dumplings.
Biscuits.	Gingerbread.
Griddle cakes.	Fruit gema.
Waffles.
HEARTY DISHES
Corn-meal croquettes.	Corn-meal fish balls.
Meat and corn-meal dumplings.
Italian polenta.	Tamales.

SIX MONTHS DOG MAKES TROUBLES

Cause of Much Letter Writing Among People at the State Capital

SHOULD PEN SUCH ANIMALS

Canines Too Young to Wear License Tags May Still Give Trouble by Running at Large at Night in Violation of Law.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Dogs under six months appear to be giving officials of several departments of the state government considerable work to do these days. The new state dog license code became effective January 15, and provides that every dog above the age of six months in third-class cities, boroughs and townships must be licensed and that after dark they must be penned up or taken out in leash.

Dogs under six months are not to be licensed, but as they are prone to roam about many letters have come here asking what to do with them if captured and owners do not arrange for their liberation. By the terms of the code unlicensed dogs not called for are to be shot or destroyed. The operation of the new dog license act has been brought to attention of State Game Commission officers and wardens have been instructed to use care in shooting unlicensed dogs and to pen up the animals under six months old.

To Enforce Escheat Act.
Banking institutions or other establishments, where unclaimed deposits or other valuable things may be being called upon by the auditor general's department to make statements of money or articles in their possession whose owners are unknown. This action is being taken under the escheat act which provides that after certain procedure such moneys or things may become property of the commonwealth.

Claims in Palmer's Name.
Notice has been given by the State Compensation Board that hereafter all claims made for compensation on the part of aliens in enemy countries are to be made in the name of A. Mitchell Palmer, custodian of alien property. This action will bring the matter under the federal government and awards will be taken care of by Mr. Palmer's Bureau at Washington.

State Uses Many Eggs.
Eggs in the cold storage warehouses of Pennsylvania decreased over 10,000,000 dozen in the three months ending January 1 according to statistics of food in storage compiled by the state Dairy and Food Bureau from reports of the warehouses. The same 70 storage plants reduced stocks of butter from almost 11,000,000 pounds to a little over 6,000,000 pounds. In the same period fish in storage jumped and the usual holiday decline in poultry was far exceeded.

Arsenal Needs Coal.
Officers of the state's military establishment has been busy hunting fuel for the State Arsenal, where equipment for the Reserve Militia is being assembled and haversacks and other articles manufactured. The Arsenal has only a few days' supply left in the bids and efforts were made to secure enough to insure operations. The Capitol is not likely to be closed as the river coal on hand will last through the winter.

Briefs Are Filed.
The briefs were filed in behalf of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in the full crew cases pending before the Public Service Commission. A date for argument will be fixed shortly.

Chamber to Name Committees.
The State Chamber of Commerce, which recently named a committee to make an inquiry into old age pensions, which will keep in touch with the State Commission on the same subject, will also name committees on revision of banking and insurance laws, on which the state has commissions. The data gathered by the Chamber of Commerce will be made available for the state authorities and the General Assembly.

Hospital Inmates Do Much Work.
Inmates of the Danville State Hospital, who were organized into an auxiliary of the Red Cross, have contributed almost 45,000 separate articles since organized last May, according to a letter received by Governor Brumbaugh from the institution. At Danville there have been made 127 sweaters, 186 pairs of socks, 30 pairs of wristlets, 12 helmets and 9 scarfs. The inmates have also made bathrobes, surgeons' gowns, bed shirts and thousands of surgical gauze dressings.

Charters Granted.
